Oh, Were I a Bird

1846
Sullivan, J.T.S.

19011

"OH, WERE I A BIRD."

A SONG

Written and Composed

BY

J. T. S. SULLIVAN.

Philadelphia A. FIOT 196 Chesnut St
New York W. DUBOIS 315 Broadway

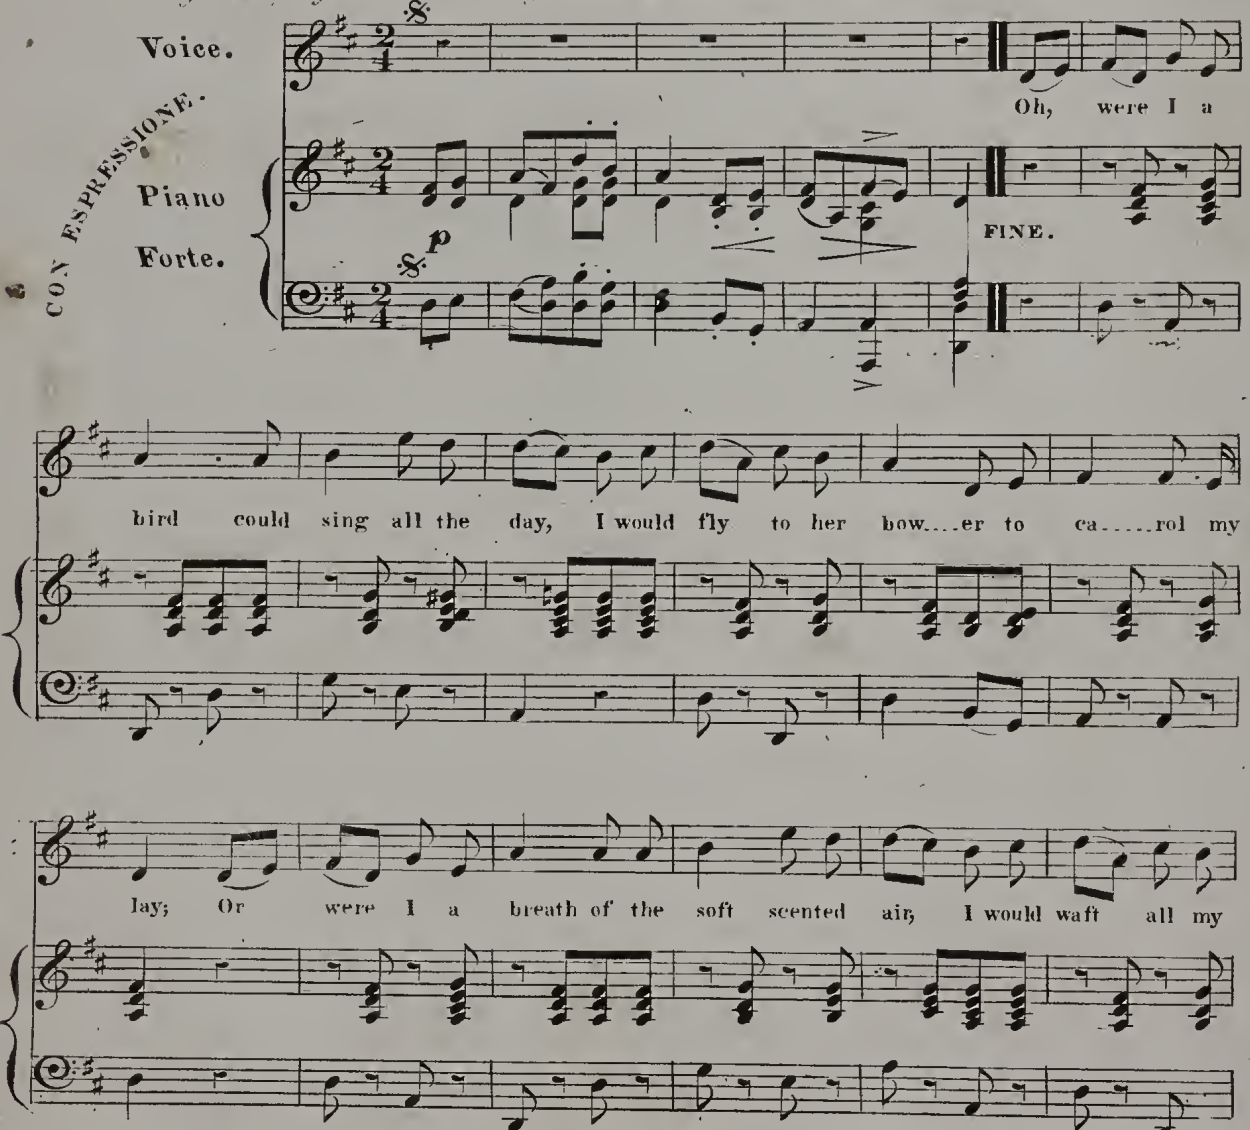
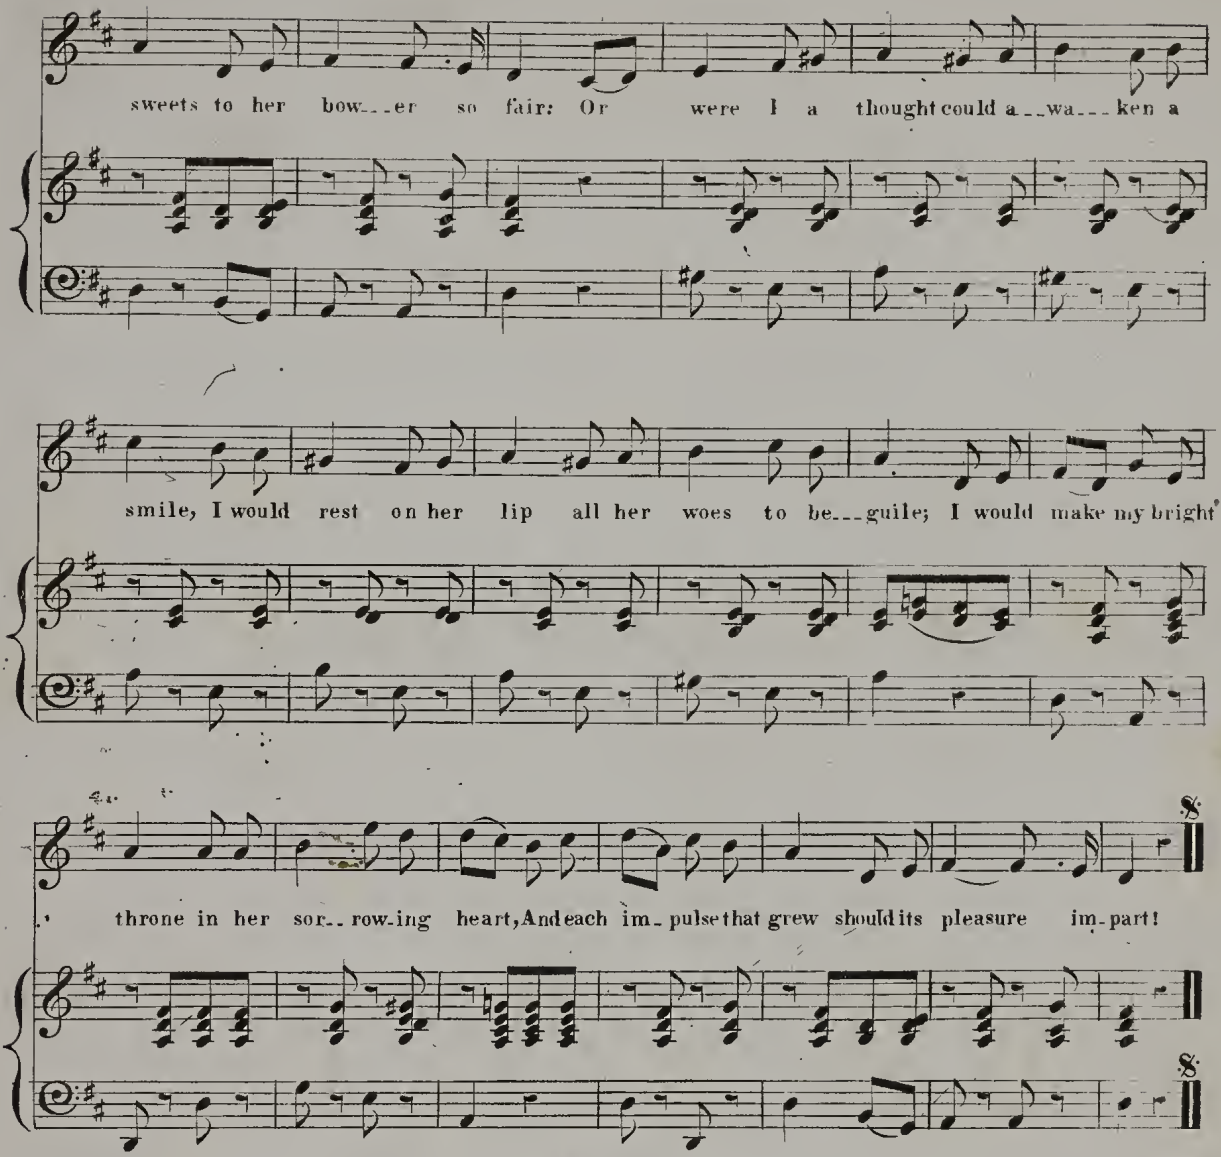
Entered according to act of Congress in the Year 1846 by A. Fiot in the Clerks Office of the District Court of the Eastern District of Pa





2

Oh, were I a strain of some melody sweet,
I would steal to her chamber her slumbers to greet;
Or were I a dream, could recall to her mind
The pleasures and joys she has long left behind;
I would hover around in the stillness of night,
And her visions of sleep should be joyously bright;
I would kiss from her cheek ev'ry envious tear,
And guard her fond bosom from sorrow and fear!